A decorative graphic featuring the year '1981' in a bold, black, serif font. The year is centered within a thin black circle. Surrounding the circle are several concentric, slightly irregular black lines that create a sense of motion or a stylized wave. To the right of the circle, a long, elegant, curved line extends outwards, ending in a small hook-like flourish.

Starting

The year started out super at C.H.S. After the traditional way of registration, Mr. Excell mentioned the two new foreign exchange students, Edward Delgado and Antero Fernandez. They made foreign exchange a first in Cokeville history.

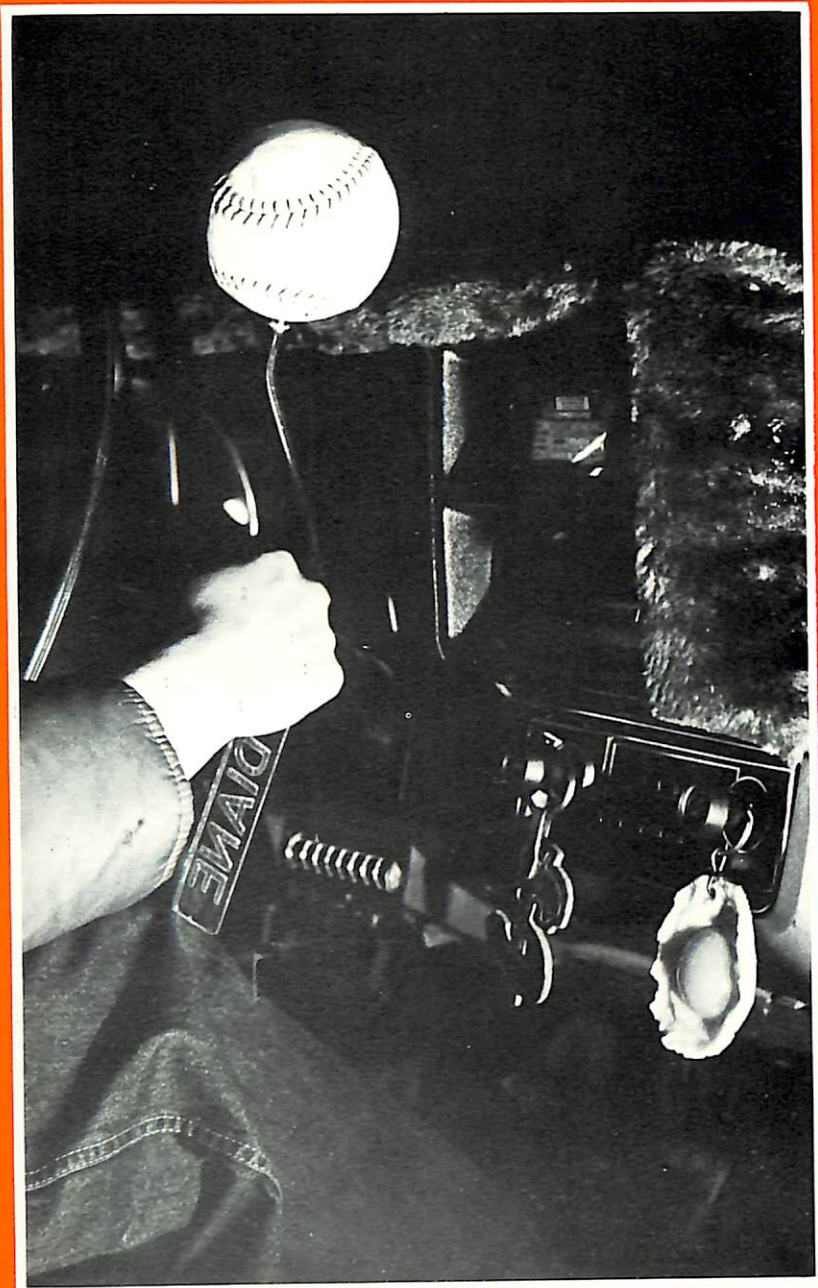

Starting was also very important for some of the students who drove their cars to school, especially on cold winter mornings. Starting was a big thing at C.H.S., and great starts resulted in even better endings.

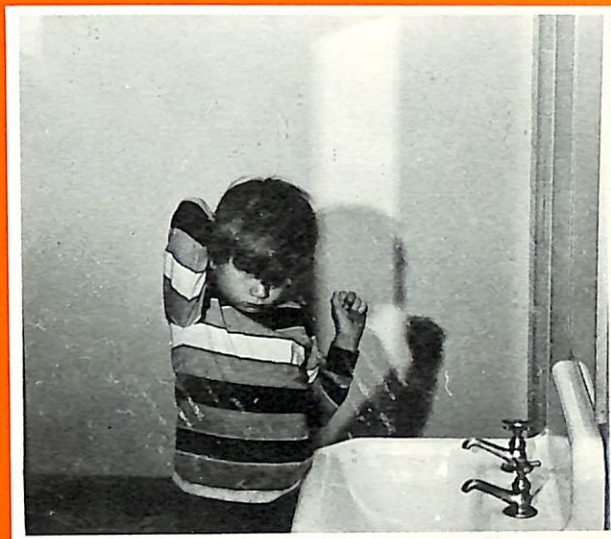

A new life progresses with the help of a mother.

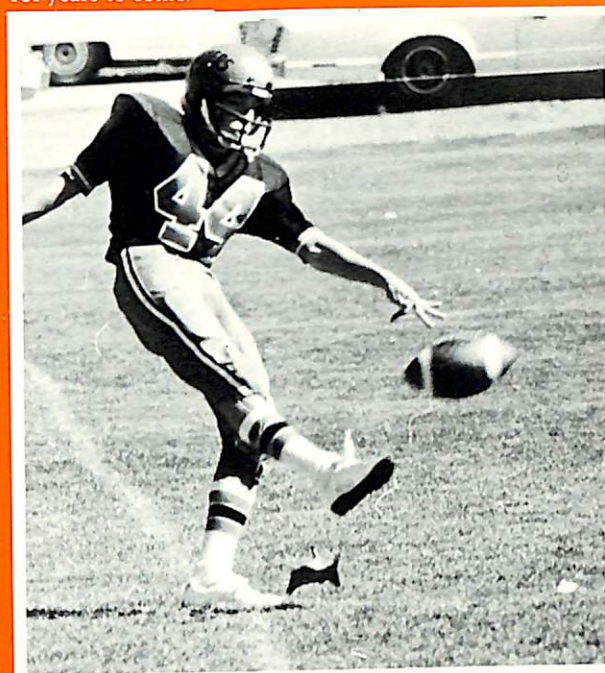

The start of another school day.

"I'm depending on you."

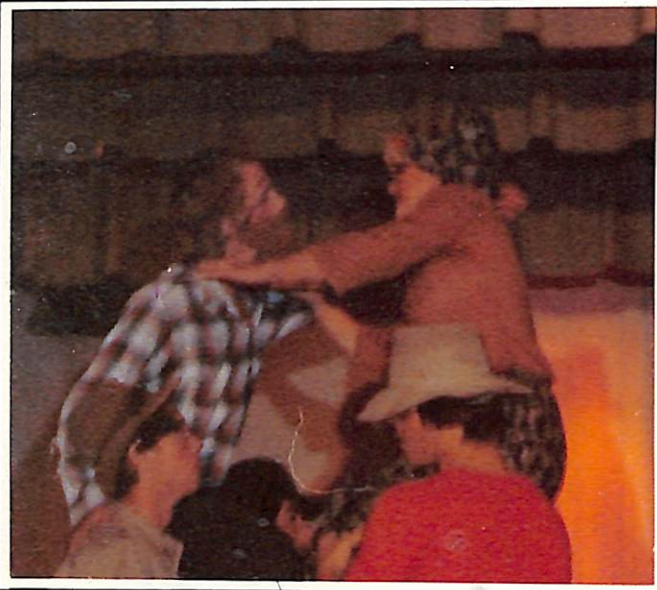

Kindergarten children are faced with preparing themselves for years to come.

Edward Delgado starts the football game with a fantastic kickoff.

Performing

The miners celebrate Ben's purchase of a wife in the performance of Paint Your Wagon.

The Pantherettes performed at the half time of each home game.

Robin Forrest, as Ben Rumson, sings "Wandrin' Star."

Some of the girls were able to relax during the chorus performances.

The band also performed during the half times of some of the home games.

The various performances at Cokeville High School are becoming very popular. More and more townspeople are finding out about the non-athletic talents of the students. This was shown by the growing number of people who attended the band and chorus concerts and musicals, as at this year's musical, Paint Your Wagon. The interest in the Pantherettes is also growing. Their performances at the half times of the home basketball and football games are finally gaining the recognition they have worked very hard for.

Studying

"Please help me!"

Studying isn't just a thing you do for school classes. You study many things without thinking about it, but homework doesn't seem to be something you can forget about.

Why study? Why indeed, there are so many more fascinating things to do with your time. After you've done all the exciting things you go home to relax, only to find piles of un-opened books staring at you. "Open me, or die!" they cry. Thinking of the consequences, on you go to the books, first determining where you can best concentrate. In a quiet room? (Not without KFI on the radio) During lunch? (OK, but not on a day when pizza is being served. Not even graduation is more important than pizza.) With your girlfriend? (Well, you could always say you were studying!) Once down to serious business of actually doing your homework, you have to decide on the quickest way to finish the most work with the least amount of effort. The best way, of course, call a friend who has already done his history assignment and copy it. For physiology you bribe your older brother to do the work, promising in turn to not tell about last night. Then you corner your mother into typing your English paper. Maybe you had better take some of your studies to musical production rehearsal tonight, and sit in the back of the auditorium and study because when all else fails you might have to do a little honest work yourself.

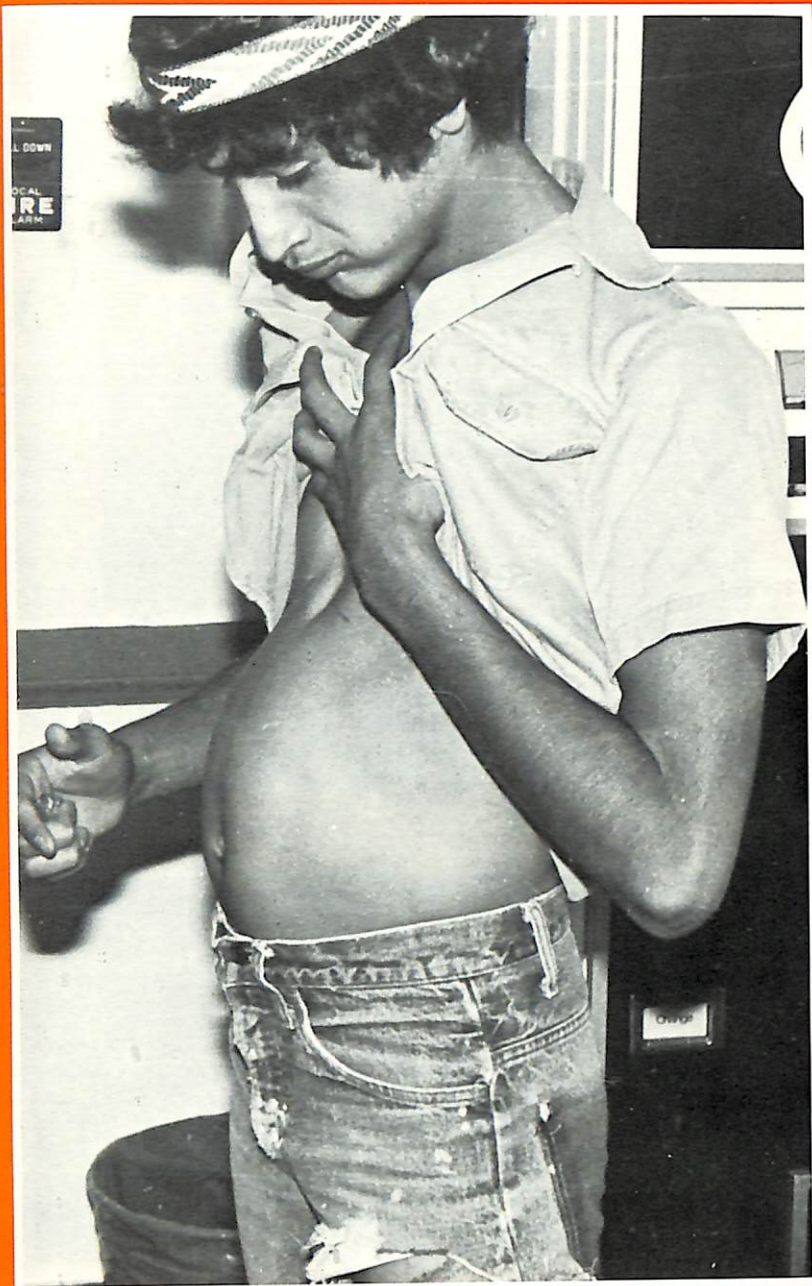

David Larson studies his shop project

Lisa Pope studies next, while typing her yearbook assignment.

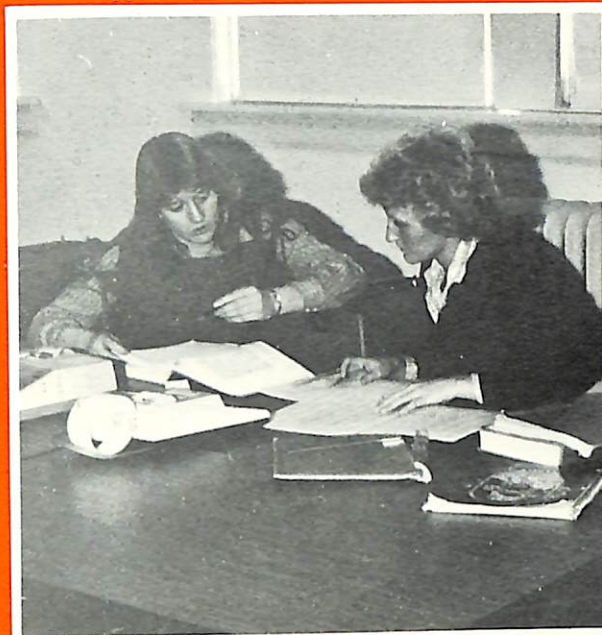

It's obvious what Wayne Harmon is studying!

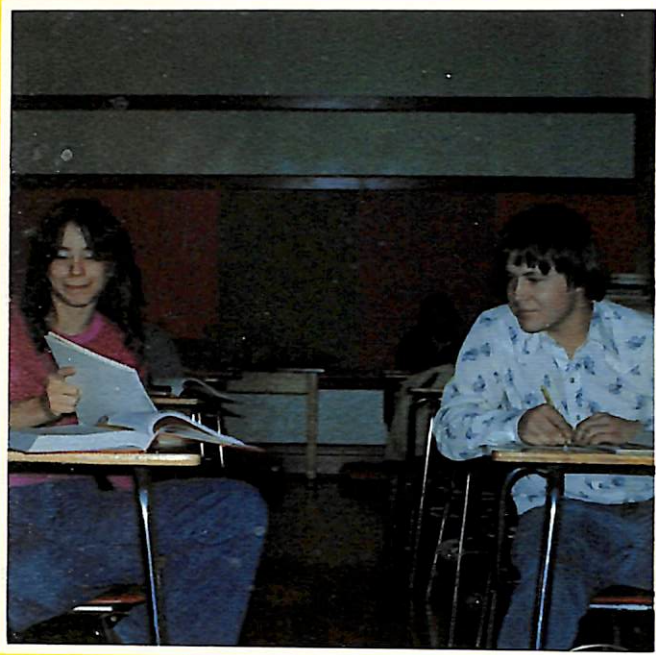

Steve Excell studies Janine Neuman as she walks down the hall on Hippie Day.

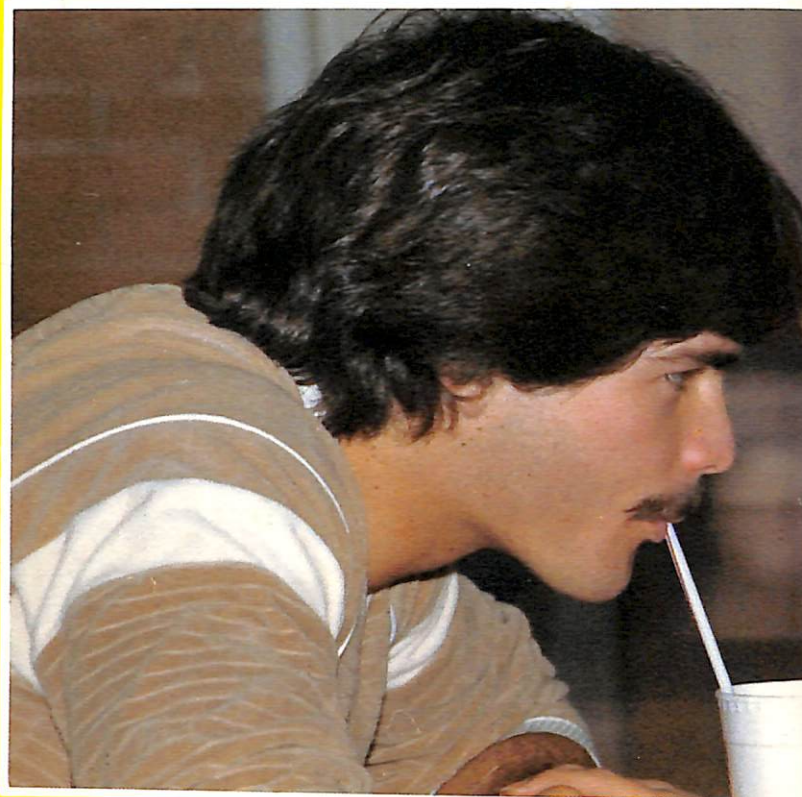

Jody Egbert and Cheryl Peterson help each other while studying accounting.

Sharing

Judy Petersen shares her answers with Stan Neisses

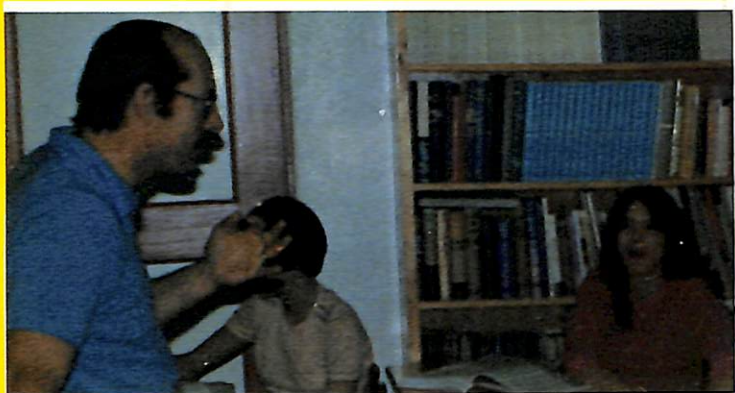

There's nothing like a Panther for sharing. It is a small but important part of school. Someone is always needing something like a pen, paper, or maybe even an answer or two. The students are always sharing ideas and experiences. Have you ever been on a trip and ran out of money? Well, you never have to worry because Cokeville kids are willing and able to share with you anything they have. Sharing is a rewarding way to get a new friend.

Bill Johnson and Debbie Andersen see who can drink the most.

A friendly gesture!

Mr. Mercate shares his knowledge with the class.

Lisa Pope shares a hot secret with Trudy Taylor.

Celebrating

Senior boys celebrate another State Championship.

Bill Johnson and Cheryl Thompson enjoy Senior Ball.

Dancers celebrate in musical.

"Celebrate good times, come on." Cokeville had many chances to celebrate in the 1980-81 year. Not only students enjoyed the year but townspeople helped celebrate also.

They traveled to Laramie to help the Panthers celebrate another state championship. Since the regional football championship game was at Cokeville, all of the people in town got a chance to support and congratulate the regional champs. All of the dances provided good entertainment for Cokeville and people around the area. Cokeville High School will have many opportunities to celebrate in years to come.

Competing

Quarterback Jerre Holmes looks down field for a receiver.

Lance Fuller and Steve Excell helped their float win second place in the float competition.

Mr. Robicheau trains for marathon.

The 1980 Annual wins second in the state.

Competing and winning are natural instincts at CHS. Almost every aspect of school life is competing, whether it be in sports or academics.

Cokeville is always competitive in sports. They are always in the running, even though the schools around us are bigger.

As in every other year, the yearbook staff entered the Rambouillet in the state judging contest. Cokeville was named "Runner Up" for Division 3.

Not only the students compete, but faculty as well. Mr. Robicheau, the new math teacher, ran 10 to 15 miles a day preparing for the New Orleans Marathon which he has always wanted to run. Competing pushes the students and faculty into being better and stronger.

Working

Angie Erikson, Laura Wilde, Luann Larson, and Tina Loveland practice in band.

Melvin Teichert works on his shop project.

Paige Feuz works to get her homework done before school is out.

Cheryl Thompson works on her sewing project.

Scott Ferguson gives "the dummy" a powerful hit.

There are always chores to do after school at Pope's ranch.

What can often be found in the dark and is at every school activity with a flash? Members of the yearbook staff, with the odds against them to get last minute printing done, and copy written. In spite of working out for sports, homework and work at jobs, they find time for out of school projects, and fun. Classes and clubs had movies, carwashes, and dinners for fund raising projects. Homecoming was a lot of hard work, preparing floats, decorating the dance, white-washing the C and class competitions throughout the week. The cheerleaders and pantherettes worked hard all year to keep up the spirit at assemblies and entertained with half time shows. The band and choir practiced for festival and tour.

It seemed that some of the juniors and seniors were confused about what or who was to be painted on this year's trip to the C.

The annual lighting of the C!

Everyone got "fired up" at the homecoming eve pep rally.

Jerre Holmes shows how cool he could really be.

Wayne Harmon and Andy Carmichael seem to have lost some of their cool at this moment.

Nothin' Like a Panther Homecoming

Homecoming had an added excitement to it this year. Besides being an annual, highly celebrated game, this year it was to decide who would go to the district playoff. The game was played against the Lyman Eagles but was stopped six seconds into the third quarter because Cokeville was ahead 45-0.

Since we only paint the C every other year it was the first time for both the junior and the senior boys. It was also the first time for Coach Dayton because when he was in school at C.H.S. the job was left up to the boys who did not play football. The job has since changed hands and is now left up to all of the junior and senior boys.

There was also a new day put into the week's agenda. Hippie day gave everyone a chance to show how much cool they really had by dressing in their favorite hippie clothes.

Excell Expresses Concern

Mrs. Betty Rentfro, Secretary

The school district superintendent, Dr. Lowe.

School Board Members: Gordon Thornock, Jerry Harmon, Rowan Anderson, Joe Buckley, Keith Swenson, Rex Bateman. Not Pictured: Dean Merritt.

The principal of Cokeville Schools, Mr. Max Excell.

Mr. Excell established a new attendance policy this year in which he calls the students' parents when they are absent. This has really put a damper on student sluffs.

A WORD FROM OUR PRINCIPAL

My feelings run deep for Cokeville High School and her students. I think it was Will Rogers who said "I never met a man I didn't like." I feel the same way about every student. I share your achievements, your glory, your failures, and hurting right along with you.

My greatest areas of concern are these: that students do not take life seriously. Some seek to shorten it with abuses of differing types, while others are bored with the world around them. We all need to put more into life so we can get something out of it. Life can be so great. Let's make it great for each of us.

FACULTY RESPOND:

Verlene Bennion — A good attitude.

Glenn Birch — Sincere effort.

Judy Brooks — Someone who will try to do their best.

Bob Dana — A positive attitude and a determination to succeed.

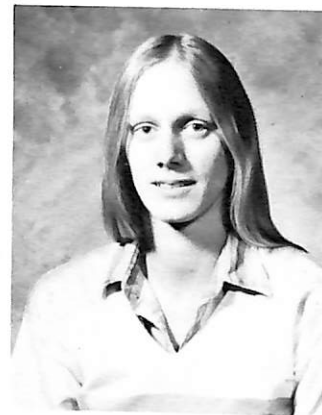

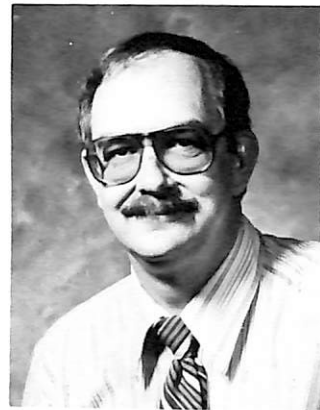

Clara Dayton — Having a desire to do the best they can and respect others.

Todd Dayton — Wanting to succeed.

Lyle Forrest — A student who wants to learn.

Linda Kaiser — I expect a student to do their best possible in whatever they undertake. Also, I expect them to respect others and themselves as well as the faculty and administration.

What Do We Look for From a Student?

Jack Mitchell — Someone who will try to work to the best of their ability.

Carol Petersen — A student that respects authority and doesn't settle for mediocracy.

Harvey Robicheau — One who possesses a hunger for self-education. One who realizes learning is not often confined to a given time or space but often in spite of it.

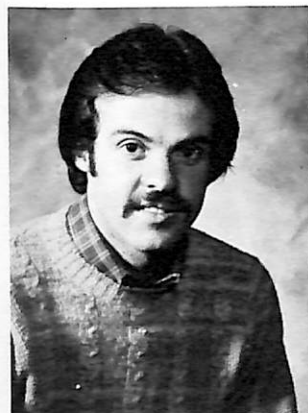

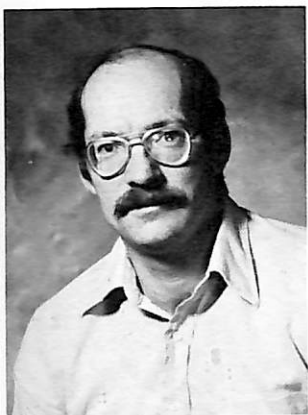

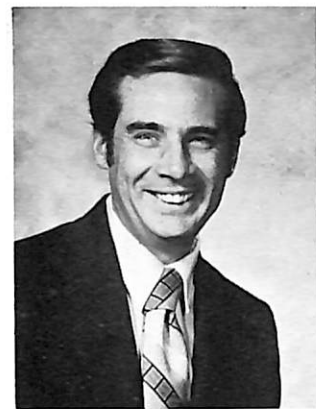

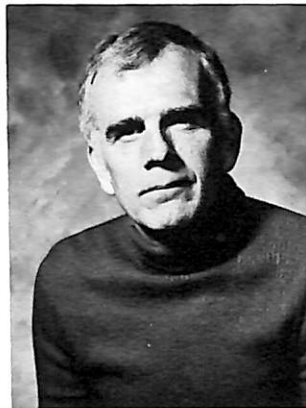

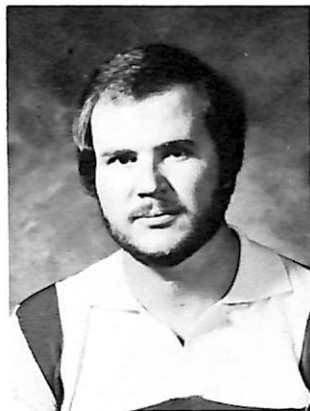

Genera Robinson — Taking the initiative to seek out answers on their own and who respect themselves and others.

Steve Taylor — Someone who works hard and has respect for others, also someone who has goals for the future plus a positive outlook.

Pam Weston — Someone who is willing to try to overcome some of their problems and not always put the blame on others.

Jack Metcalfe — I like a student with a good sense of humor, dependability, and the ability to think a question and problem through to a satisfactory completion.

John Miller — Someone who will try to work to the best of their ability.

Students Enjoy Company of Non-Teachers

Our meals are well prepared by the cooks.

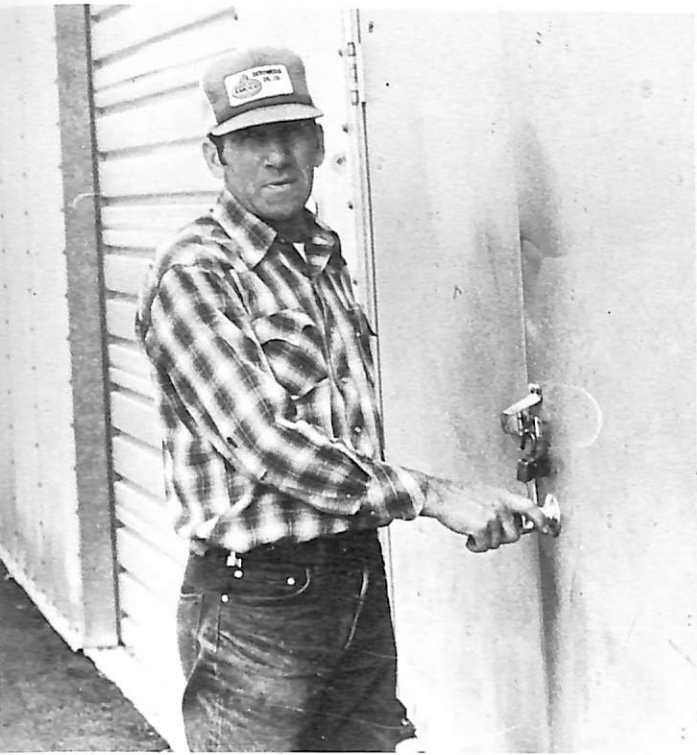

The non-teaching staff is a real friendly bunch and they all know how to get along with the students. The students really enjoy the company of these people who work so hard. From bus drivers to custodians, each one enjoys coming to work every day and associating with the kids. The cooks have seen many classes graduate and they keep hanging in there cooking meals for the students and faculty. Those not pictured on this page are Dorris Moore and Connie Moore. They have helped with the bus driving.

Bob Dayton and John Toomer take five.

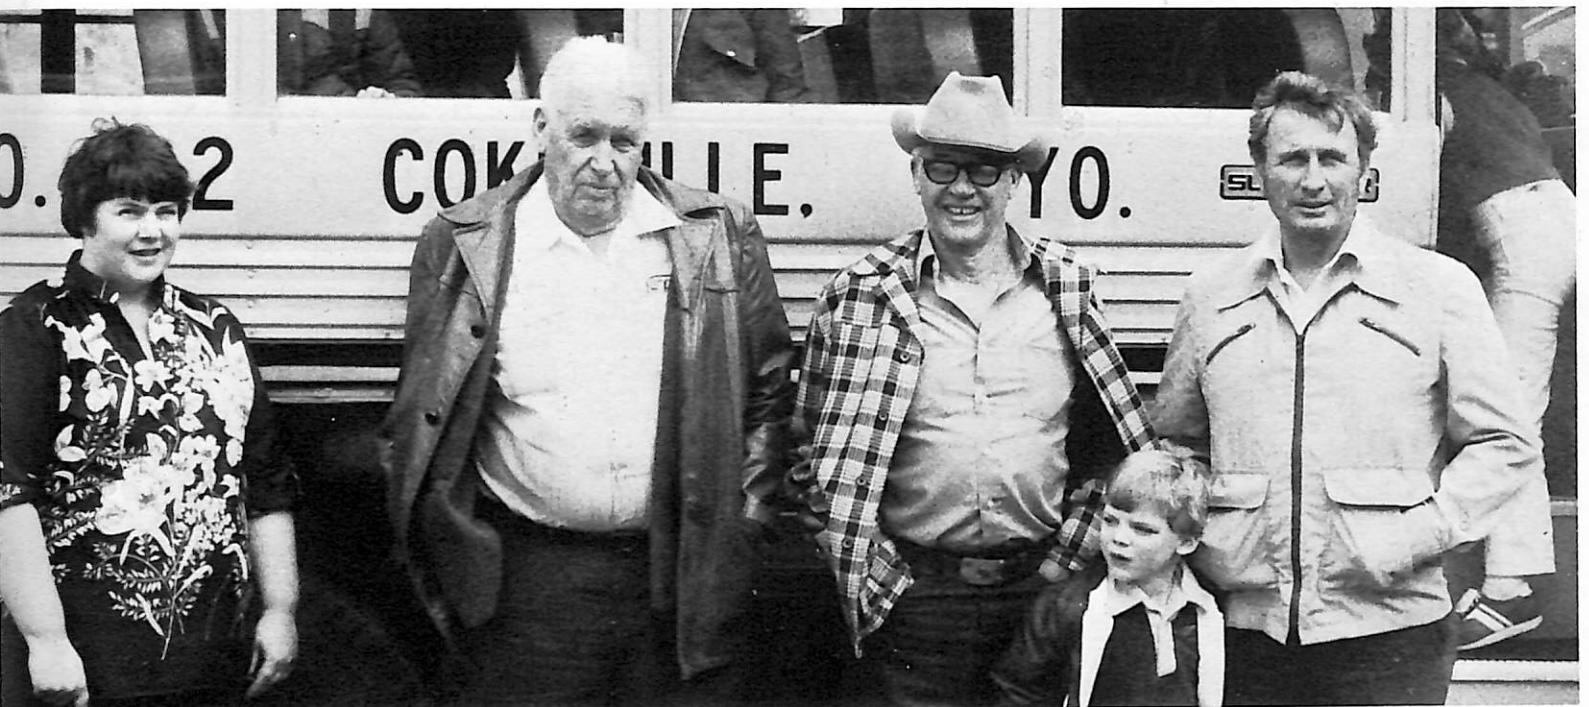

Rhona Kingston drove bus and cleaned.

Gary Taylor has a key to everything.

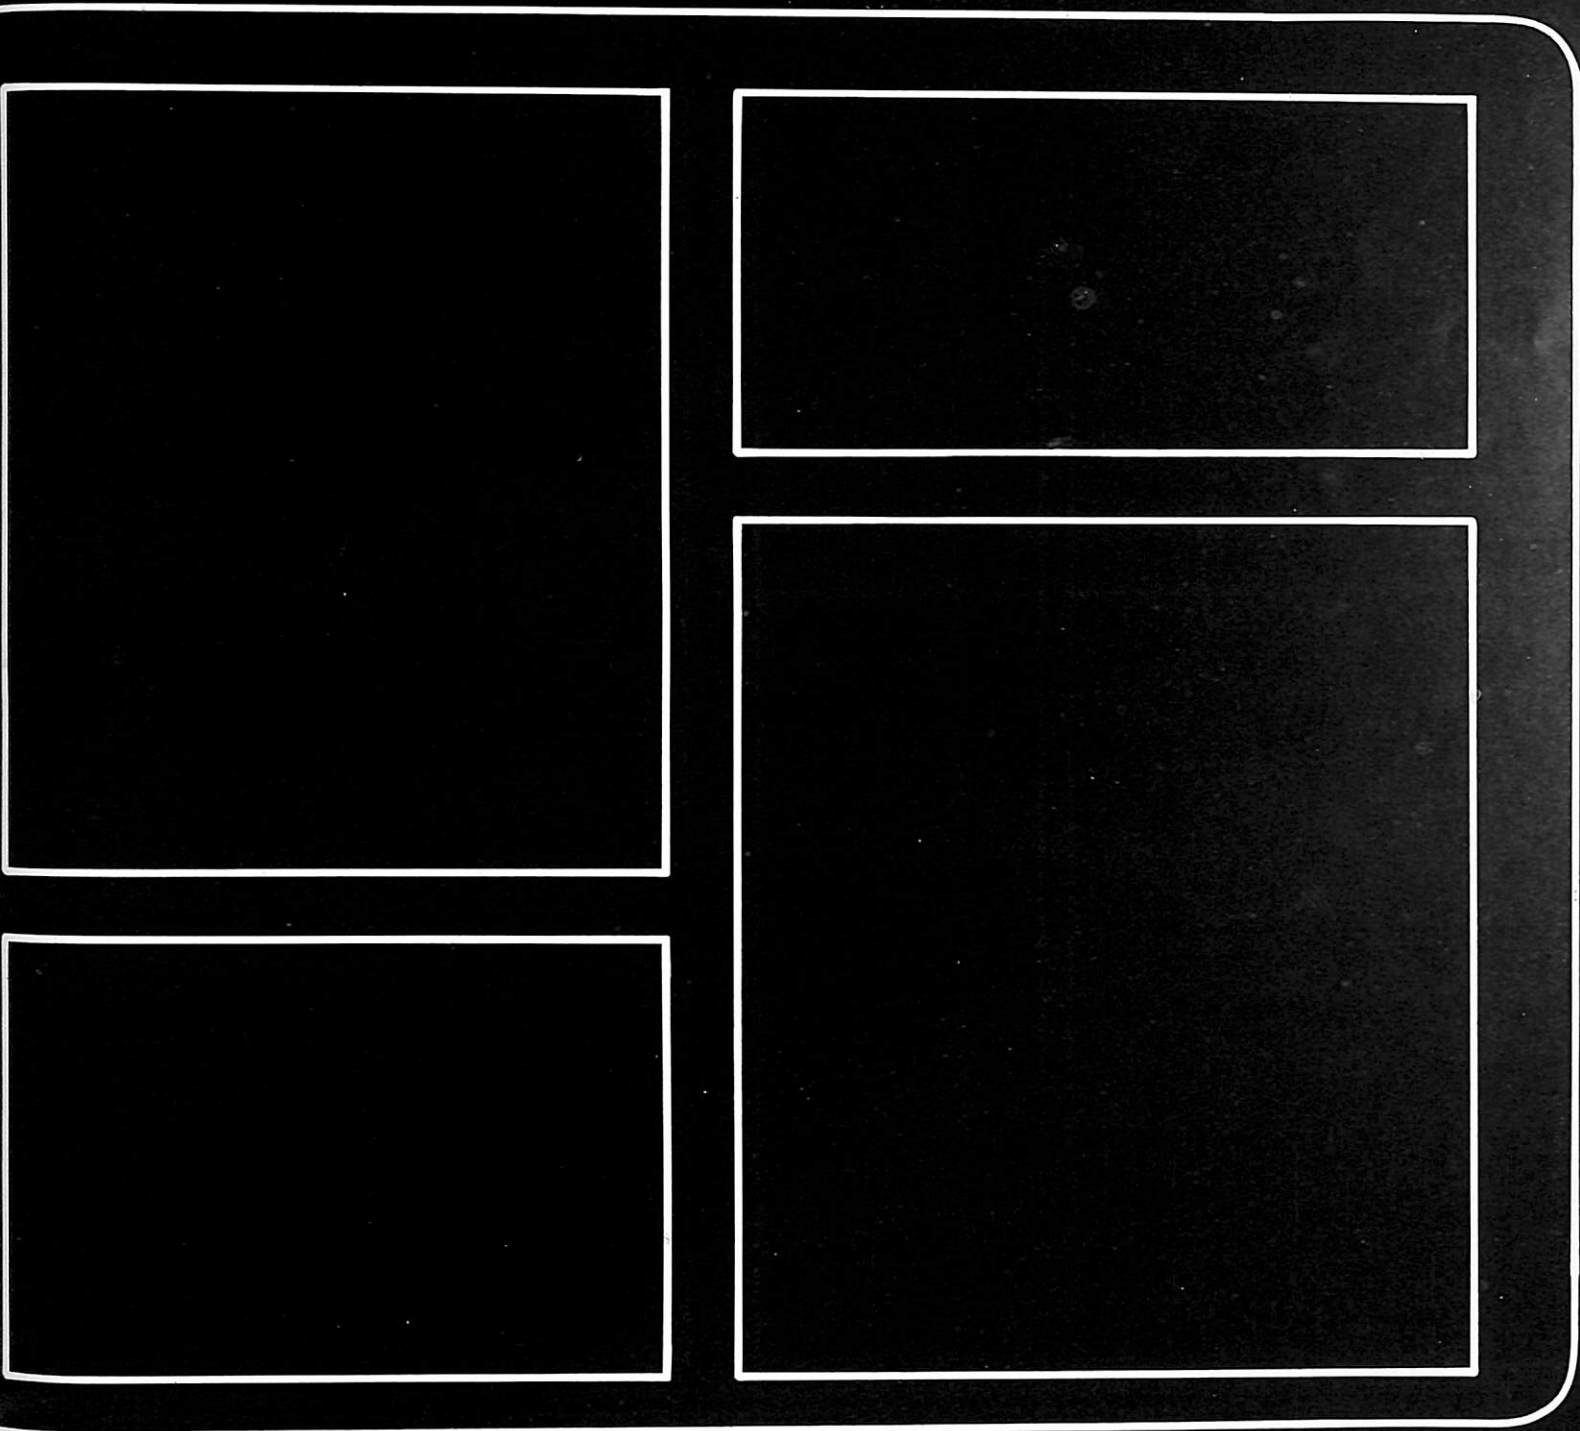

Maureen Taylor, Inez Pearson and Adeline Johnson are our main chefs.

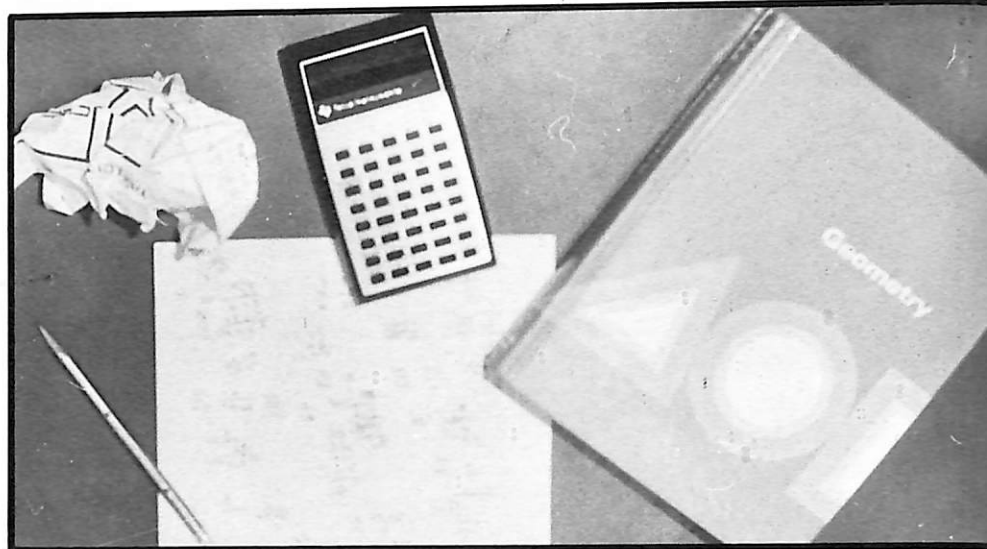

Bus drivers, Margaret McKinnon, Herman Mau, Art Robinson and Ed Dayton transport the students.

ACADEMICS

M A T H

Geometry is a usual sight of homework.

Now we know what Mr. Robicheau does during his prep period.

The math department not only received a new teacher this year but along with him came many plans and ideas. Mr. Robicheau came to Cokeville with the idea that he would have a successful year in all of his math classes and that when the hard work was accomplished, they would play and goof-off. And this is just what they did.

SCIENCE

Mr. Forrest demonstrates lacerations.

To demonstrate wounds to his physiology class, Mr. Forrest made some models of lacerations. Then he shocked each class member as he walked through the door by holding out this gross looking cut with blood dripping from it.

The science classes also did many traditional dissections on hearts, crayfish, frogs, etc.

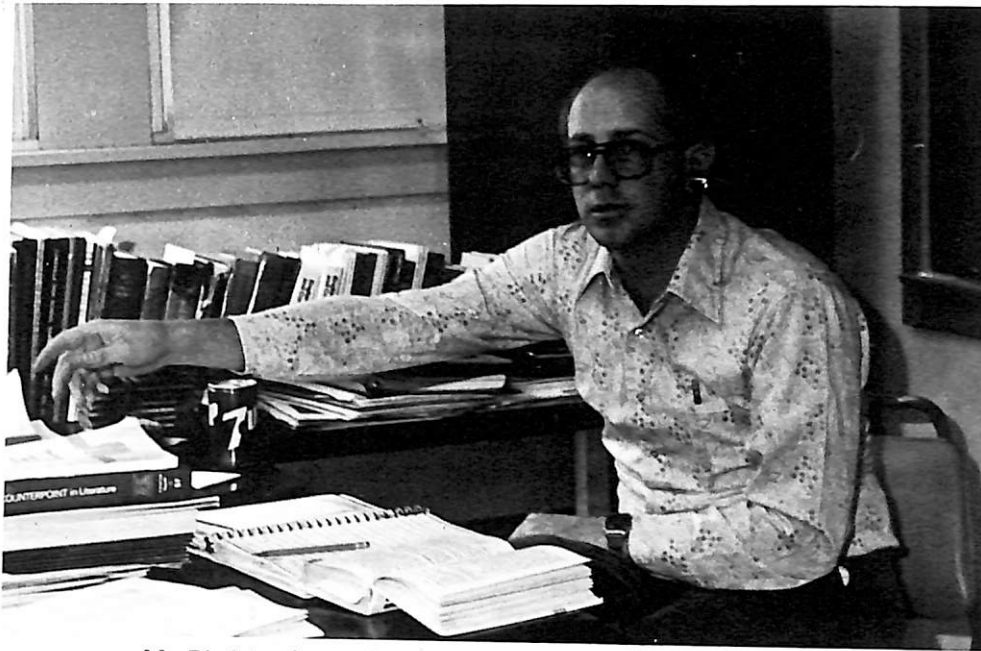

Mr. Birch tries out the new computer that the science room received.

Mr. Forrest shows Trudy Taylor and Tina Hoveland the parts of the heart.

E N G L I S H

Mr. Birch hard at work correcting papers for his English classes.

"What do we do in English? We play monkeys, elephants and palm trees," said Lorie Pope. Miss Kaiser, or "Special K" as she is affectionately known, could often be caught playing games with her 10th grade English class. It helped them follow directions and listen when having fun. Her 7th grade reading class read their way from New York to Cokeville. They won a mile for every page they read.

Mr. Birch took his senior English class to B.Y.U. to use the library to help with their research papers. To break the monotony of studying, they roller skated, and went to movies during their three day stay at Provo, Utah.

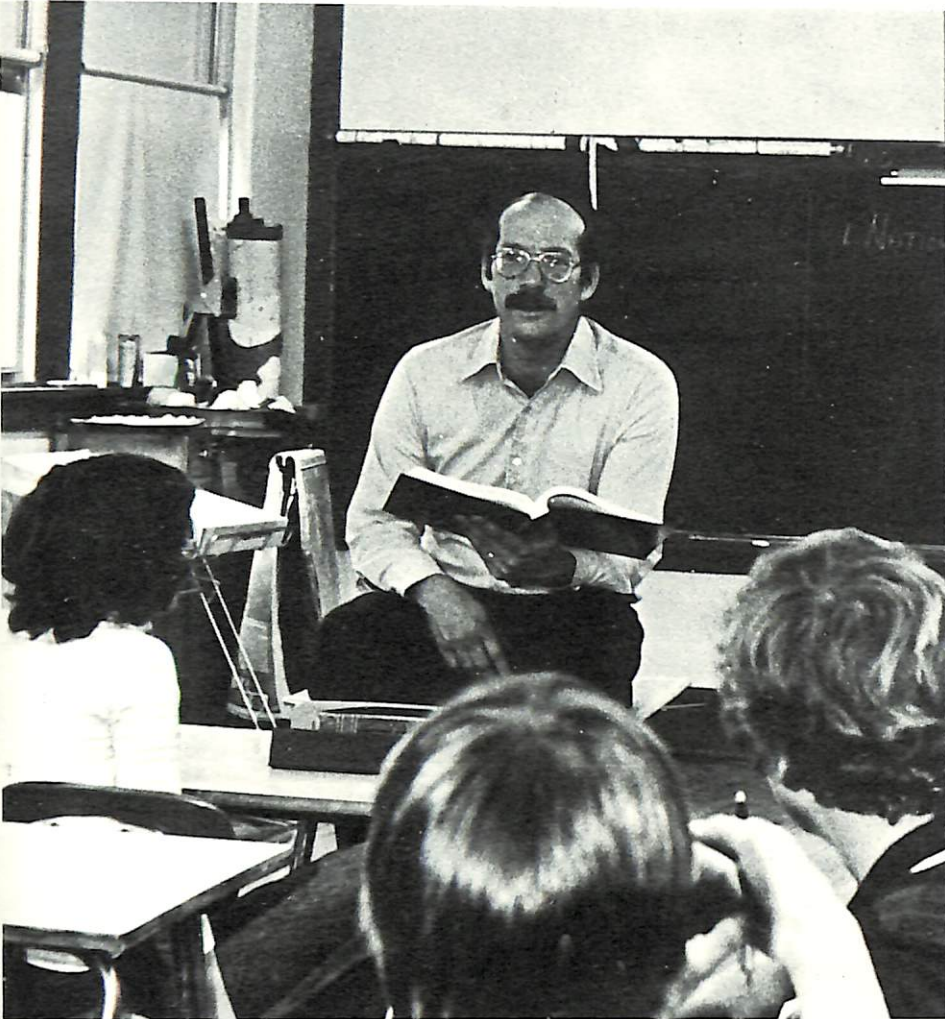

Miss Kaiser helps Blair Robinson with a reading project in 7th grade reading.

Mr. Metcalfe helps his 8th grade class with an assignment.

Lance Fuller helps Debbie Anderson with a history assignment in U.S. History.

Munch, munch, munch. Who would have ever thought that eating would be a part of world geography? The table was set for an international dinner, and the students prepared and ate dishes from all the European countries.

7th graders smoke! No they just passed the peace pipe during their Indian day activities, and later listened to the spinner of mountain men's tall tales.

The juniors in U.S. History got to meet Kunta Kinte first hand as they tried to recreate slave ship conditions in class. "Oh, wow! I got layed off, the rent's due and the bank foreclosed on my loan." These are the reactions of the eighth grade as they simulated job and life conditions in their career unit.

"I disagree with the senator from Kemmerer," said Bill Johnson legislator from Cokeville, as the debate over sex discrimination rages during junior legislature at C.H.S. These are just a few of the many activities in the social studies department.

B U S I N E S S

Laura Wilde and Jodi Egbert study their accounting.

Mr. Steve Taylor, head of the business department, has added an extra incentive for the classes to come. He ordered three computers and will offer classes for students who are interested in learning how to use them. Mr. Taylor has taken computer programming in college so he is excited to teach this class. From talking to students who are going to take the class we found that this is the most popular class for the upcoming year.

Other classes taught in his class room are typing, bookkeeping, office practice, accounting, business math and shorthand. It is obvious that Mr. Taylor has been busy but he handles each class very well.

Mr. Taylor helps Lorraine Larson with her problems.

HOME ECONOMICS

Mrs. Dayton Usually has to clean up after somebody.

Something's always cooking in C.H.S.'s Home Economics room. Between that and the lunchroom there is always a sweet smell in the school. Mrs. Clara Dayton is responsible for this smell. She is enjoying her 26th year in home ec. and is getting better every year.

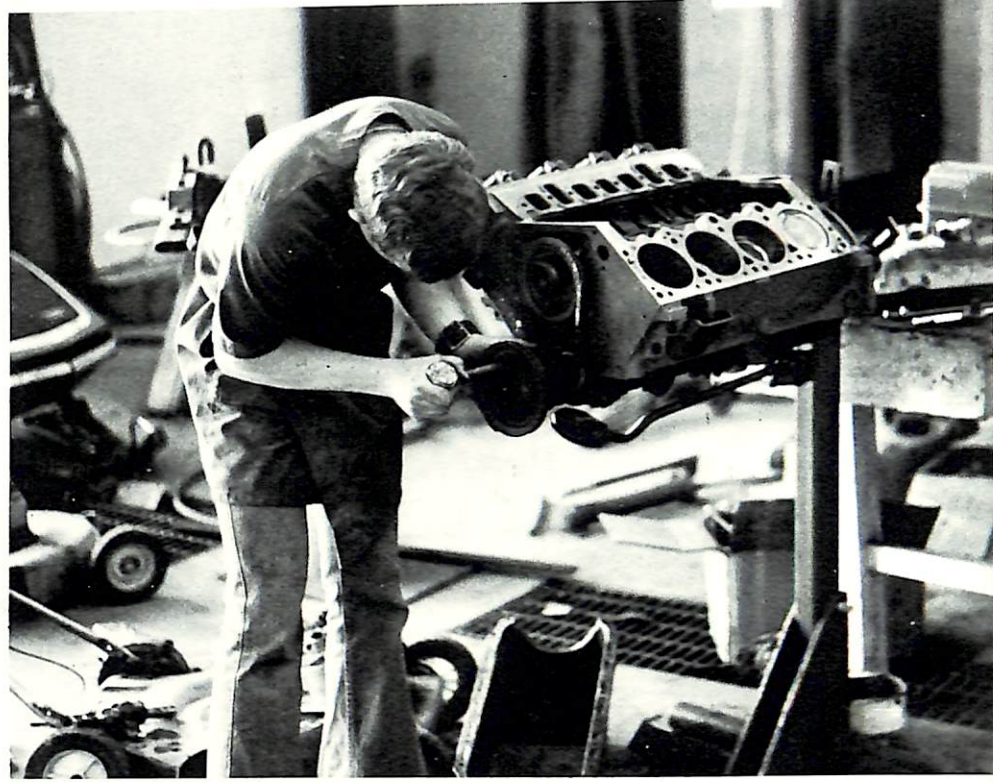

If there isn't cooking going on, there is always a sewing machine in use. Not only will you find females at a machine but males as well. Steve Excell did a fine job in his advanced home ec. class. He made a coat that the rest of the boys in the high school envied very much.

At the end of the year, the members of each class displayed all of their works at the annual "Mothers' Luncheon."

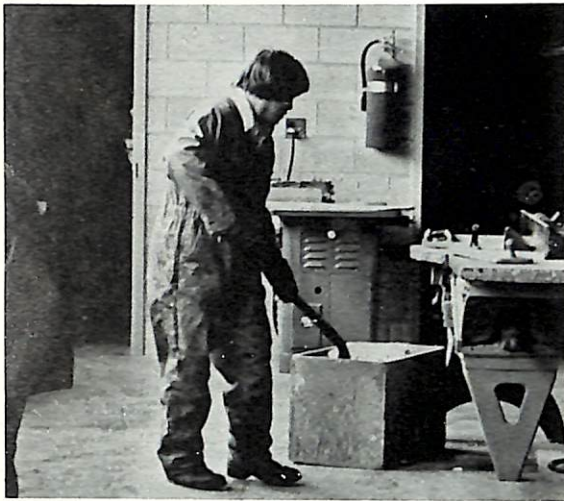

Suzanne Petersen adds to her wardrobe.

S H O P

Tom McAfee examines the timing gears to his engine.

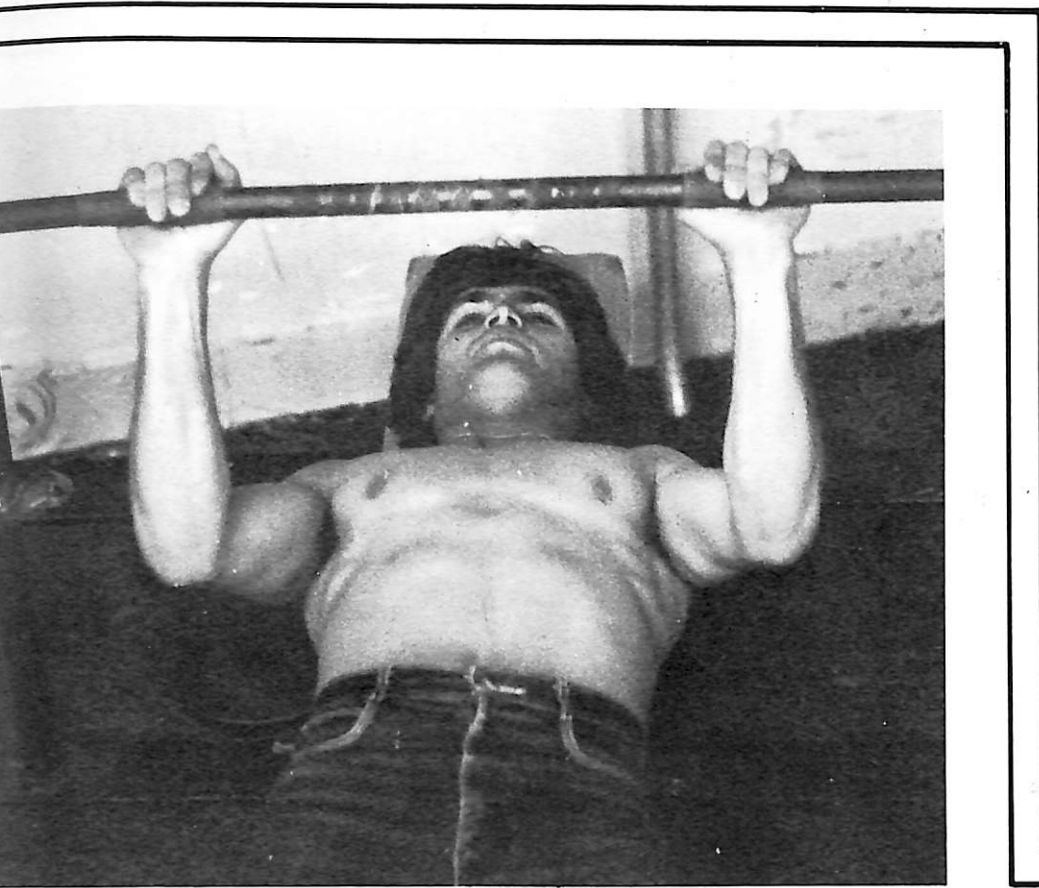

Stan Neisess doesn't really enjoy cleaning up after class!

The Industrial Arts Department has been and still is one of Cokeville High's favorite classes. With the addition of the new power mechanic's building, more students have been signing up. New welding and other equipment enable students to learn skills never taught here before, and wood projects pour out of the shop regularly.

With some kids taking two or more shop classes a day, Mr. Dana sure had his hands full. But if there were any records to be set, Kevin Weston would hold it. Five of his seven classes were in shop.

Mark Mower mounts the frame assembly to his jeep.

P. E.

The girls practice a Pantherette routine during P.E.

So, this is what you get when you lift weights!

Physical Education is fun and exciting, but most of all it gives the kids in Cokeville a chance to build their bodies and minds. The classes started out fresh by receiving two new coaches to teach in this department. Miss Linda Kaiser, a Utah State graduate, kept Cokeville's sexy girls in shape with a variety of activities, and Todd Dayton, a former athlete and student of C.H.S., returned to Cokeville for a very successful coaching year.

MUSIC

The band marched during half-time at homecoming.

Mr. Miller's smile shows his achievements.

1980-81 brought a good year for Mr. Miller and his Music Department. Their first performance was during homecoming. They put on two concerts throughout the year. The highlight for Mr. Miller was when the band and choir received superior ratings at festival. Many kids took solos and ensemble also. At the end of the year, the music department packed up and went on tour. They covered Montpelier, Dayton, Bancroft, and many other towns in Idaho in just two days. Mr. Miller should be commended for a great job.

These are just some of the many ceramic articles the students did in art this year.

The Sophomores had their usual parties and moneymaking projects, but they did have something a little out of the ordinary. They had a new class member; he was an exchange student from Monterrey, Mexico. It was very interesting trying to communicate and to get to know him. But before long, they had Edward Delgado adjusted to school as though he was from Cokeville. With a lot of leadership from Kurt Robinson as president, the class stayed close together and made a pretty good year out of it.

Juniors Do It Again

"Can't we think of something different to do for our class party?" asked Lisa Pope. The juniors have been doing the same thing at their class parties since they were in seventh grade. It was the tradition of going to the gym, playing a little volleyball and eating pizza. This year, however, they decided to break the tradition by eating tacos. Although the juniors did the same thing for their class parties they always seemed to have a good time.

Juniors Surprise Everyone

The Juniors surprised everyone including themselves with their great success this year. For a moneymaking project they sponsored a dinner after the Homecoming football game. This was very successful because not only did they feed the townspeople but also the opposing football team and alumni who came home.

The Junior Prom was a dream come true to all of the juniors. It turned out even better than they had dreamed. They worked very hard every night, not sparing a single minute, trying to get it finished for that special night. Having 21 in their class made things nice when it came to decorating. Usually everyone was there to help. There were times when they wanted to give up, but with the help of their great advisors, Mrs. Clara Dayton and Mr. John Miller, they managed to pull through. This experience brought the juniors a better feeling of closeness and understanding towards each other.

The Juniors really learned to love each other while decorating for their prom.

Mr. Miller, one of the advisors, sang the theme song "Sailing" at the Junior Prom.

Mrs. Dayton and some of the junior boys serve with a smile at the dinner the juniors sponsored.

Seniors Wrap It Up

The 1980-81 seniors enjoyed their final year at Cokeville High School with many activities. The Senior Ball was, as usual, a success; only this class wasn't about to have their ball like everyone else's. Their theme was Xanadu and it was a disco which many people in town couldn't believe. Reed Wagstaff — a 1977 graduate of CHS — provided the music for the disco. Not having a live band turned many people's noses, but the seniors figured that with records they could dance to the music they wanted. The boys wore black tuxedos and the girls wore white tuxedos.

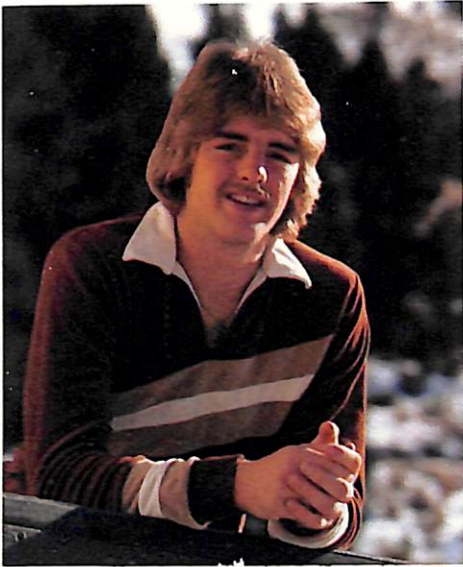

For a money-making project the faculty and staff played the senior boys in basketball. The "old men" played very well in the first half. In fact, they were leading the seniors at the end of the first quarter. Finally, conditioning caught up to the staff and the boys ran away with it 87 to 37. The score really didn't matter. The idea was to just have a good time and that's what everyone did.

Seniors Break Traditions

The 1981 seniors will be most remembered for their "changing tradition." They were the first ones to have a prom in the new gym. They were also first to have a "disco" senior ball. Their class parties have all been different from the other classes and they have enjoyed them all. They have had a lot of good times at Cokeville High School. They will leave with good and bad memories. The seniors have seen three state championships in their four years of high school. This is something they will treasure for a long time.

Constitution

Jerre Holmes, Bill Johnson, and Diane Petersen had a great year presiding over the student body.

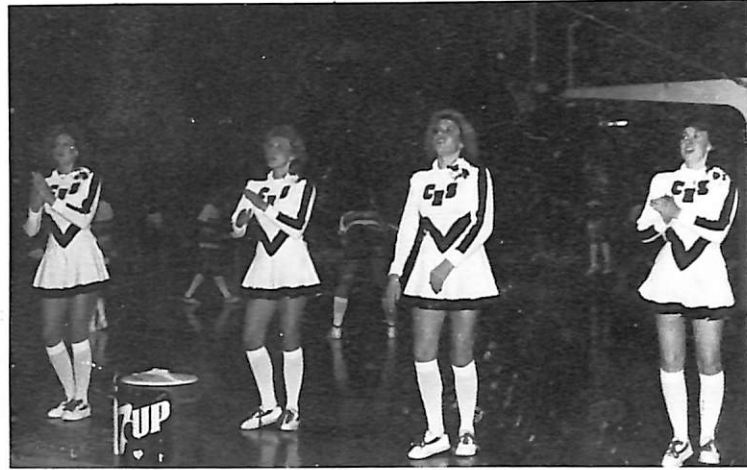

When should the person be "kicked out" of office if his grade point falls below a 7.5? This was the question that the student council faced with great concern. The constitution said that the person in office be removed automatically after his grade point falls below 7.5. The argument was that automatically didn't mean immediately. Therefore, the student council had to meet to discuss this problem and come up with some way to solve it. They decided to write an amendment for the student body to vote on that said that a nine week period of probation be provided before the student had to be removed from office. The student body met and discussed the new amendment and almost everyone was against the nine week probation period. Most wanted to change the constitution to say that automatically meant immediately. After the discussion, many were undecided and didn't vote. However, those who did vote, voted 57 for the new proposal and 44 against. Since it required at least a three-fourths vote, the new proposal did not pass.

Other than this problem, the student council had a great year. They held a fantastic Christmas party and many other fun events. With Jerre Holmes as President, Bill Johnson as Vice President and Diane Petersen as Secretary, the problems and parties were handled with a great amount of authority.

Pep Club Makes

The Pep Club was led in cheers by the cheerleaders at state tournament.

Cheering for the Champs," said the Laramie Boomerang. The Pep Club and cheerleaders followed the ball team to Laramie for the state playoffs. They could be seen standing and cheering throughout each game. They started their enthusiasm off by making signs and streamers for the boys to run through, this fired them up almost as much as it did the boys.

The Pep Club was headed by Lisa Pope, with help from Judy Petersen, Lori Pope and Becky Petersen. They started out the year with the Homecoming dance, and they also sold concessions at the football and basketball games. The week of state basketball they held a spaghetti supper for funds to go with the team and cheerleaders to state. The Pep Club was definitely a factor in the boys' success throughout the year.

FHA for ERA

During one week this year, the FHA supported the Equal Rights Amendment by turning the tables on the boys with their annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. Even though the girls asked the boys to the fling, no complaints were heard from the male population.

The officers of the FHA provided fun and service for the school and the community, as well as supplying Steve with suggestions and moral support.

Steve Excell was the only boy in Clothing Construction.

The FHA provided Santa Claus for the Kindergarten.

Girls, Girls, Girls

The girls practice their timing.

Long shadows indicate a late evening practice.

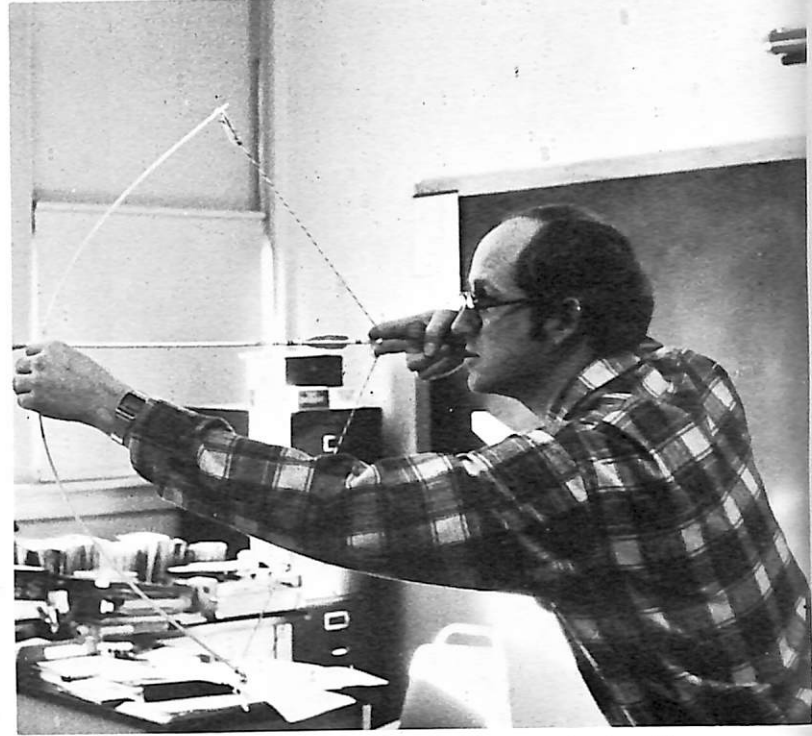

Mrs. Peterson gives some emphatic instructions.

Every day, 5th period, the student body and faculty hear some very determined sounds from behind the big steel doors of the auditorium. The constant cadence count of Mrs. Petersen's voice, the same music being played over and over, and the discouraged groans of each Pantherette drove the students crazy. But every half time, when the girls marched out on the field with precision, timing and graceful motion, we realized the worth of all the suffering.

Staff Arrives Late

The yearbook staff had the opportunity of going to Journalism Convention in Rock Springs. The trip over was quite a bad experience. First of all, they supposedly had to leave at 5:30 in the morning, but one of the members got up a little too early and while waiting for the bus, accidentally fell asleep. Finally leaving at 6:15, they were travelling along when all of a sudden the whole left side of the windshield shattered after being hit by a piece of the tread off a semi tire. Knowing that the bus could not be driven, they had to turn around and get another bus. By the time they got on the bus and filled it up with gas, they were almost two hours off schedule. Even with the trouble to get there, it seemed to be worth it.

"Yearbook sounds like an easy class to take," said Trudy Taylor, as she was working out her class schedule. But she soon learned that it wasn't as easy as it sounded. The yearbook staff worked very hard at making this a good book.

Mr. Birch has taken enough of the yearbook staff.

Yearbook Editor, Jerre Holmes presents an award at Journalism Convention.

CHS Has First Exchange Students

Antero Americo Gallo Fernandez, Jr., was an exchange student from Sao Paulo, Brazil, and lived at the home of Norene Thompson. In Brazil, he was in his second year of high school, which is comparable to a senior in the U.S.

Antero came to America to study, and that was just what he did. He spent many hours doing homework with his English-Portuguese dictionary close at hand. In Brazil, they have no athletic programs in the school system. Antero saw a football for the first time when he came to Cokeville.

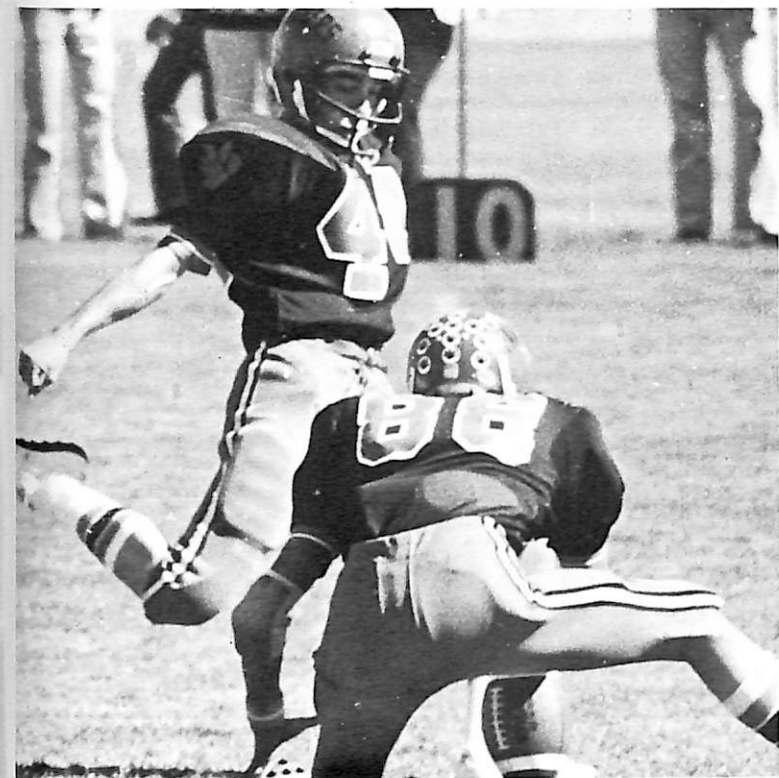

Antero said the students in Cokeville were friendly especially when he first came. He was quite amused when one student could not remember his name and called him "Ortega," like the taco.

Eduardo Delgado Villarreal, from Monterrey, Mexico, became the first exchange to join the ranks of CHS. He soon found himself the center of attention as he tried to communicate in sign language and to slowly grasp the English language. However, it didn't take long for Edward to adjust to the new environment and function as a new student. He immediately got involved in various activities such as the musical, basketball, and football. He was also a member of the yearbook staff.

Since Edward came from a country, where the popular international sport is soccer, he was able to develop effective kicking skills on the soccer field, later transferring them to the football field at CHS. He received special state honors for his excellent percentage of successful kick-offs, field goals and extra points.

Although his main hobbies were soccer and football, he had many others including playing ping pong, listening to music and milking the cows on the Petersen spread. Edward enjoyed Cokeville very much and was thinking of coming back next year.

Paint Your Wagon was as successful as possible considering the adversities which came up unexpectedly. Time became a big factor as the production crept up on the cast and directors. Some of the cast didn't realize the importance of the time they had and insisted on wasting it. Mr. Birch couldn't tolerate that nor the lack of cooperation he was getting from the cast and found it better to release himself as director. Mr. Miller then took over the play. Then at the last moment Jay Martin had to be replaced. The cast, however, put on a very enjoyable show for the people of the town. Once again, the students of CHS pulled through.

Bill Johnson, Student-Body vice-president, presided over the assemblies for the year. He got the chance to introduce many good performers. We saw everything from jugglers to musicians. The grade school enjoyed Don Comfort as he sang songs that they liked to hear. He made them laugh and even had them singing with him.

The jr. high performed their first musical under the direction of Mr. John Miller. They did very well according to many high school students who have been in musicals of their own. Mr. Miller was also pleased with their efforts.

When some thought school was out in May, others (the football team) stayed around because their work had just begun. They lifted weights three days a week all summer long. The boys started officially August 11st with hard practices twice a day until school started.

Coach Todd Dayton returned to start his Cokeville football career all over again. He played football while attending C.H.S. from 1967 to 1971. He had a lot of new ideas and a lot of changed positions to get the team as he wanted it.

When a team member did something good during a game, he earned a Panther paw sticker to put on his helmet. The team called Monday nights "Christmas Eve" and loved receiving the stickers.

Coach Jack Mitchell brought a lot of pep to the "Orange Rage" for his 7th year. He was known as the "popsicle man" to some and "Mr. Breakdown" to others. When he would yell, "Breakdown," the boys would respond, "Hit!" with fire.

The team was small, with only 19 players and three managers, but with the help of quinine water, popsicles, and candy bars, the hard work soon payed off. The team's spirit of playing together and the feeling of love was what made them winners. They worked hard. They felt it their duty to be able to go to the mirror and say, "I gave 100% and did the best job I could."

Three senior boys, Monte Andersen, Bill Johnson, and Jerre Holmes, were chosen by their team members to be tri-captains. They showed a lot of leadership and made a great contribution to the team.

Football brought a lot of fun and exciting times. One of the greatest Homecoming ever witnessed by any one at C.H.S. will long be remembered. The football team topped the week not only by winning a game but also gaining the district title.

The regional game went quite well on the Panthers home field, giving the "Orange Rage" a chance to once again play for the state championship. Three out of the four of the Casper Star Tribune staff picked the Panthers to win. Although they battled to the final gun, the Panthers came up short, their hopes were shattered by South-east Goshen, and they had to settle for state runner-up.

The pep club and fans supported the Panthers all the way. The pep-club served cake, ice cream, and pop to all the fans after the state game to congratulate the team on their great season. Some local businesses threw souvenir footballs during half time of the regional and state games. The Lions Club held a banquet for the team to honor them in their fine achievement.

Even the Weather Helped

Panthers huddle during the Pinedale Game.

Tri-captains: Bill Johnson, Jerre Holmes, Monte Andersen.

Coach Dayton and Coach Mitchell leave the field much relieved after victory over Pinedale.

Ririe, Idaho — here

Cokeville's first game; sunny day; Panthers dominate game from the beginning; easy win 42-6.

Pinedale — here

Very hot day; Panthers strike first; Holmes to Harmon; 7-7 at the end of 3rd; Panthers run out of gas; Pinedale wins 26-7.

Dugway Utah — here

Humid day; muddy field; Dugway leads at half 12-6; Panthers come back to win 26-12. Panthers in better condition.

Pindale — away

1st Conference game; Pinedale's Homecoming; revenge for the Panthers; tough defense by "Johnson and Company,"; Robinson scores only touchdown; Panthers win 7-0.

Big Piney — here

Another hot day; powerful offense scores 24 in the 1st half; Big Piney scoreless; Coach plays second string 2nd half; final score 36-0.

Lyman — here

Homecoming; no contest; Panthers enforce new rule in Wyoming, scoring 45 points, ending the game at the end of the third; 45-0. 3-0 in Conference.

Mackey Idaho — here

Windy afternoon; Panthers intercept 6 passes; 2 for touchdowns; Panthers remain unscored on in 18 quarters.

Mountain View — away

Stormy day, no contests; Panthers win the District Title; still unscored on (22 quarters). Regional playoff next Saturday.

Shoshoni — here

Western Regional Playoff; perfect day; tough first half, Panthers make first two strikes; Shoshoni comes back with 6; end of first half 14-6; 2nd half Panthers make a run away, touchdown after touchdown; Panthers on there way to state. 49-6.

Southeast Goshen — here

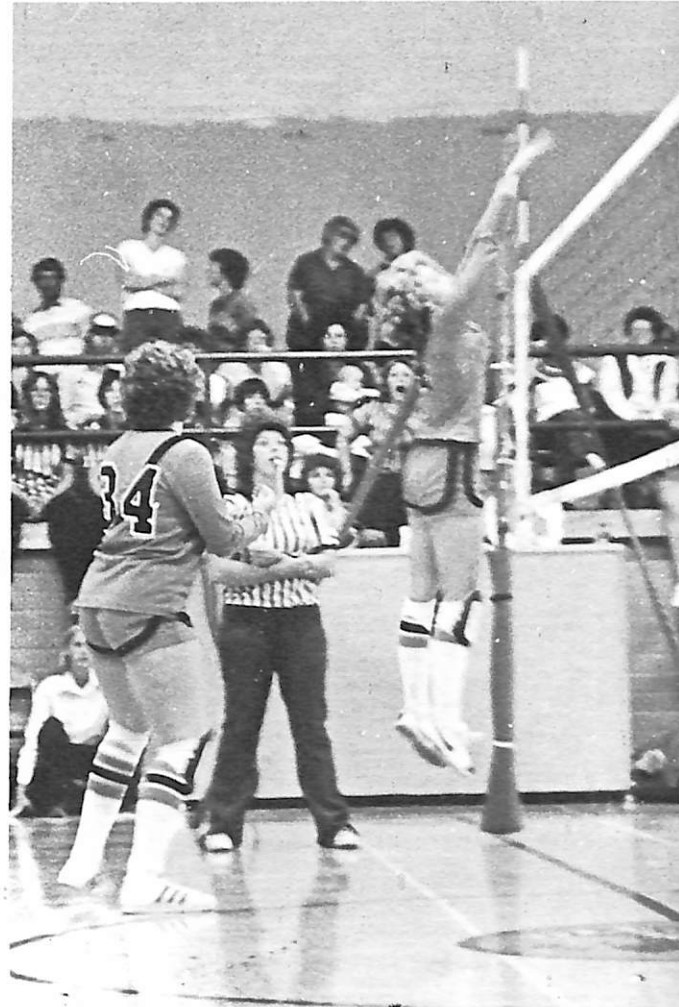

State playoff; sunny day, but cloudy for the Panthers. S.E. Goshen just to quick; end of the first half 26-0. Panthers surprise Goshen with a touchdown and a successful on-side kick, but Goshen comes back to destroy the Panthers hope. 8-38.

The Panthers end the season with a record of 8 and 2.

Coach Kieser watches patiently from the side line.

Debbie Andersen anxiously waits for the serve.

The new coach was pleased with the effort that was given by the girls this year. A big factor in this was the strong leadership shown by the two co-captains, Jodi Egbert and Becky Petersen. Although they didn't have a very good record, they played hard all season, and if they had had some lucky breaks, it could have been a different story. They had fun, and are looking forward to next year.

Panthers Get Revenge at Championships

One word can explain the varsity's 1980-81 season "Incredible!" Only one game kept that word from being "perfect." The panthers started the season off with a big bang by beating Mountain View and the opponents following. They went to Ethete and won the Wyoming Indian Tournament. (Jerre Holmes and Wayne Harmon made all-tourney). The season continued on in a pleasing manner as the panthers knocked off opponents right and left. The perfect record came to a sudden stop when they were defeated by La Grange in the district championships. The panthers were not to be outdone as they met up with the Longhorns of LaGrange in the state championship. They handed the Longhorns a 59-53 loss which made the panthers state champs for the second straight year. Monte Anderson, and Jerre Holmes were named to the all-district and all-state teams while Wayne Harmon was named to the all-district team. The panthers finished the season with a 21-1-0 record. One of the best records in the history of Cokeville High School.

Junior Varsity Goes to Tournament

The junior varsity competed in their first tournament in a long time at the Wyoming Indian Tournament. There was a varsity and junior varsity tournament. The j.v.'s took a very respectable third place. They were beaten in the semi-finals by Morrow who won the tournament. Steve Excell was named to the all-tournament team.

During the season the junior varsity ran into some stiff competition but still came out with a winning record of 9-5. Many of the j.v. starters will be depended on next year to carry the varsity team.

Lady Cagers Have Rocky Season

The varsity girls headed into the 1981 season with a new coach. Linda Kaiser took the Lady Panthers and got a pretty good start. It seemed that the first part of the year went much better than the last. The girls ran into some stiff competition and just couldn't get it together. They had many chances to win games that they lost. Losing a lot of close games psychologically knocked the girls down, and they didn't make it into the state tournament. Coach Kaiser lost only seniors which leaves a lot of hope for the coming year.

CARMICHAEL WINS STATE TWICE

When the track season came around, no one was quite sure who was going out. The first day of practice was a surprise to many people: fifteen showed up and thirteen stayed out. Even thirteen was nine more than the year before.

Coach Dayton enjoyed a fairly good year as the team went to Kemmerer, Jackson and Coalville (schools much larger than CHS) and always came out in the top three.

The panther tracksters missed the district championship by one point and if it hadn't been for a couple of injuries on the team, they would have easily won it. At state they finished third place which pleased the coach. Andy Carmichael came away with two state championships in the shot put and discus. He scored twelve out of the twenty-three points. The mile-relay team finished second, Monte Andersen took two fourths in the hurdles, Kurt Robinson finished fourth in the 100 meter dash and Bill Johnson got fifth in the 800 meter dash.

The track teams to come should be good, with the underclassmen and Coach Dayton coming back.

Girls' Track Takes Second

The girls' track season grew along the way: not only in numbers but in skill and strength. A combination of sweat and gut practices, hard work, and good times brought the girls second place at the District Tournament. With tight scoring for third place at state, the girls took fifth place.

Royalty At Court

Becky Petersen and Jerre Holmes reigned as Homecoming king and queen.

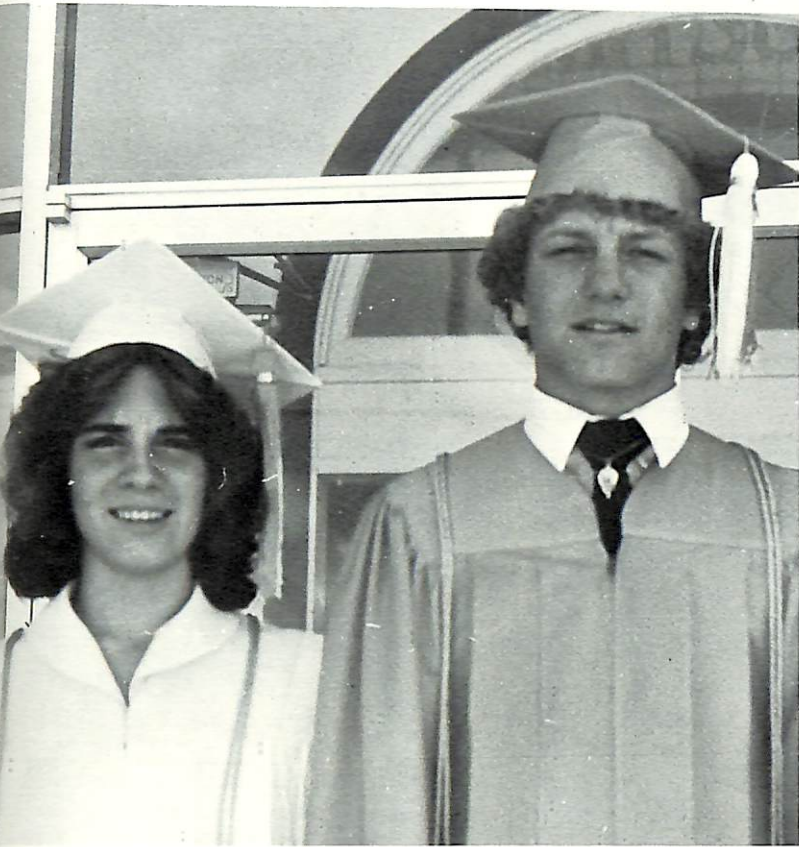

Monte Andersen and Laura Wilde were chosen as Little Abner and Daisy Mae for the Sadie Hawkins dance.

Debbie Andersen and Mark Mower were chosen as the Junior Prom king and queen.

This was a formal occasion.

Academic honors go to Jerre Holmes and Becky Petersen.

The Seniors made dancing at their ball a little different. They changed tradition by having Reed Wagstaff come and play records for their music instead of having a live band. They also had the girls wear tuxedos along with the boys. They decorated the auditorium in white plastic on all walls and on the ceiling with colored lights behind it shining through to go along with their theme "Xanadu." They also decided not to have a king and queen.

The Homecoming royalty was Jerre Holmes and Becky Petersen. The final day of Homecoming ended in a victory dance to celebrate the win against Pinedale.

The Sadie Hawkins, a girls' choice dance, was another big event. It is traditionally organized by the F.H.A. and they did an extra sharp job again this year.

The grand finale for the year was the Junior Prom. The Juniors worked very hard on getting the decorations all centered around Hawaiian ideas, to go along with their theme "Sailing." The gym was decorated in royal blue with a sun set in the background. They also had their advisors, Mr. Miller and Mrs. Dayton had out lathes to each person as they walked through the door. With the atmosphere provided by the Juniors and the music provided by the group "Weekends" this was one of the highlights of the year. All of the dances were very successful and fun for everyone.

8th Grade

For one of their class parties, the eighth grade had a fun game of softball, went over to the Home Ec. room and ate pizza and soft-shelled tacos, had a tremendous water fight, and then all of them went into the boys' locker room and showered together! Now this may sound a little out of line, but not really. At least they all had clothes on. And at least their advisors, Mr. Forrest and Coach Dayton were there. (If that did any good!) Really, the girls had good reason to shower — especially after they had been dragged through the mud by their classmates, the boys. Now that really sounds like lots of fun!

The Eighth Grade Class Officers were: Bryan Dayton, Troy Holden, Kenny Petersen and Shane McKinnon.

Jr. High 7th Grade

Watching the 7th Graders try to adjust to the new environment is a different experience. Most of them are quite shy and don't know quite what to do. Instead of just one teacher, they have several different ones and several different classrooms. They are now heard in student council and have gained a lot of new responsibilities.

Moving to a new end of the building, the 7th grade soon adjusted to the new environment. They soon learned the tricks of the high school. They chose their class officers to start off the year like the rest of the classes. Under the direction of their advisors, Robert Dana and Steve Taylor, they decided to raffle turkeys and hams at the basketball games for their money-making project. For their class party they played volleyball and other sports in the gym; then they went to the Home Ec. room and ate pizza.

The 7th grade enjoyed their first year in the jr. high and had lots of fun. Learning more about the other end of the building was well worth their time. It has been an exciting, growing year for them.
